

Valérie Bonnardel

Valérie Bonnardel, Reader in Experimental Psychology at the University of Winchester (UK), holds a PhD in Visual Neuroscience (UPMC-Paris, France). Her domain of expertise concerns colour science with a particular interest in cross-cultural aspects of colour perception and colour cognition (For a full list of publications -- https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Valerie_Bonnardel).

She has been a colour consultant at the Department of Experimental Psychology at the University of California San Diego (USA), a visiting scientist in the Laboratory of Perceptual Dynamics- Riken BSI - Wako-Shi (Japan) and in 2011, hold the Asian Paint - NID Colour Research Chair at the National Institute of Design in Ahmedabad (India). From 2013 to 2015, she was the Chair of the Colour Group (Great Britain). She is also an early member of the Centre Français de la Couleur.